

Publishing the Light... Simply!

1. God is faithful to guide our steps if we choose to be led by Him. Describe some of the specific ways He has directed your life. _____

2. Perhaps there is someone in your life that needs to get right with God. How does the story of Joe's conversion in Papua New Guinea (PNG) encourage you? _____

3. Joe and Gay Taylor never intended to be publishers of gospel literature. But they did see a need (printing newsletters for missionaries) and purposed to do everything they could to help meet that need. Because they were willing to obey and walk through open doors of opportunity, a worldwide, powerful ministry was born. What open doors of ministry are before you? How can God use you to make a significant spiritual impact in this world? _____

4. To those looking on, it might have seemed foolish to start Gospel Publishing Mission, especially in PNG. While there were certainly risks involved, ultimately millions of people have been touched through this ministry. Prayerfully write down one or two new "risks" you are willing to take for God within the rest of this year. _____

5. Sometimes obedience to God's call is not easy. For Joe and Gay, carving out a publishing work in PNG was difficult. However had they not been there, most likely the vision for publishing the gospel in International English would never have been born. Think back over your walk with God, and describe a time He specifically rewarded your obedience to Him. _____

6. Why is International English such a powerful tool for spreading the good news of Jesus Christ? _____

7. In what ways could you or your church use GPM's literature to share the light of the gospel with needy people around you? _____
